Pay Respect to DeGarmo.

As this was the last meeting of the present common council, President Everett said he thought that the retiring council should adopt resolutions of respect to Alderman DeGarmo, who is ill. The suggestion was unanimously adopted and a resolution that the presiding officer appoint a committee of three to draft resolutions was passed. Aldermen Moore, Clark and O'Reilly were appointed and later in the evening submitted a resolution extending the sympathy of the council to Alderman DeGarmo and expressing the hope for his speedy recovery. The resolution will be spread in full on the council minutes and a copy sent to Alderman DeGarmo.

The common council of 1926-27 then adjourned.

DECLARE CASE STRENGTHENED AGAINST DR. McMillan

Los Angeles, Dec. 31 (AP).—Sheriff's investigators dug into a growing mass of tangled clues here today in an effort to reconstruct an orderly story of the slaying of Mrs. Amelia Appleby, widow of a millionaire Chicago inventor.

A piece of patched canvas and some bits of cord which correspond to those used to wrap the body were added to the chain of evidence by which the prosecutors expect to convict Dr. Charles M. McMillan of the murder.

Although McMillan continued to assert his innocence, the authorities declared their case against him had been materially strengthened by the finding of the canvas and the cord and by word from Chicago that he was involved in the financial affairs of the woman.

The canvas and the pieces of rope, according to the officers, fixed the probable place of the slaying in a north rear room of Mrs. Appleby's home here. It was there also, the officers said, that the body was wrapped in the canvas before transporting it to the outskirts of the city, where it was found Monday.

The officers declared they had not obtained a satisfactory explanation from the doctor of two pairs of shoes of the slain woman found in his apartment. There were no shoes on the body when found.

Lumber Yard Changes Hands

Central Lumber Company Takes Over Neice Lumber Yard on O'Neil Street—Additional Land Leased—Members of New Concern Well Known.

The Neice Lumber Yard on O'Neil street has been taken over by the Central Lumber Company and will be conducted in the future by that company. The Central Lumber Company is composed of Harry P. Dederick and Henry B. Osterhout of this city. It is the intention of the firm to put in a full line of lumber and building material and supplies as soon as possible. The yard will be taken over by the new firm on January 1 and the concern intends to put on a sufficient number of trucks to handle the trade.

The firm has also leased a plot of land in the rear of the Neice yard which will give ample piling room for heavy stock with the additional facilities of direct unloading from the Ulster & Delaware Railroad switch which will eliminate the necessity of trucking and give an entrance on Tremper avenue as well as two entrances on O'Neil street.

Judson Neice will remain with the firm as yard foreman and his customers will meet with the same general treatment as heretofore.

Mr. Osterhout is a well-known young man, a son of Rodney B. Osterhout, and Harry P. Dederick has been for a number of years in the wholesale business and will continue to call on his retail dealers in eastern New York as has been his custom. Mr. Dederick has had considerable experience in the lumber business from the stump to the finished product. During the war he was supervising inspector for the ordinance department in black walnut and has a large acquaintance among mill men of the middlewest and south which will assure the firm of a high grade stock of lumber.

The firm will be ready for business on January 1 when the business is taken over.

Bad Bill Monroe Again Asks Pardon

William H. Anderson, Former Anti-Saloon League Head, Seeks It From Governor Smith on Monroe's Behalf.

"Bad Bill" Monroe, serving a 20 years' sentence in Sing Sing for the murder of Andrew Barrett, an aged recluse on Mt. Hones, Fishkill, four years ago, has appealed to Governor Smith for a pardon. District Attorney Reynolds of Dutchess county, whose advice was asked by the governor, opposed the pardon of the county's reputed most vicious and feared criminal.

Bad Bill's pardon is being sought by William H. Anderson, former Anti-Saloon League head, who became interested in Monroe when he himself was serving a term at Sing Sing. If Monroe gets advantages of all possible reductions in time for good behavior, he may be free in ten more years.

Anderson holds that Monroe was "railroaded" and expects to obtain his pardon. Governor Smith refused previous requests from Anderson that "Bad Bill's" case have a special investigation.

For a time Monroe was confined in Dannemora prison, where the worst criminals are assembled, but was later removed to Sing Sing. Although Mr. Reynolds holds that Monroe is not a fit social subject to be at large, Bad Bill hopes he will be included in the annual New Year's pardons usually granted by Governor Smith on the eve of that day.

Monroe's application for a pardon is the second one from a Dutchess county prisoner to be filed with Governor Smith. John Dworak, confined in the Elmira Reformatory on a manslaughter charge, has also applied for a pardon.

Lindbergh's Skill Thrills Crowd

Demonstrates Great Ability in Landing Plane Safely in Narrow Space—Crowd Goes Wild and Breaks Through Police Cordons.

Belize, British Honduras, Dec. 31 (AP).—Enthusiasm in Central America for the exploits of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh was intensified today by the skill with which he landed on a small and treacherous field here.

The flyer gave a demonstration of his great ability when he guided the Spirit of St. Louis to earth with the narrowest margin of safety in a city where no land plane ever alighted before. In completing the 250 mile flight from Guatemala City in three hours and 25 minutes, his plane bogged in the sandy soil of the field. It was removed, undamaged, to firmer ground.

Lindbergh looked the field over before he came down and decided that he could land here instead of merely flying over Belize and continuing to San Salvador.

The plane came down over the northern end of the narrow sports field, so low that it barely missed telephone wires running across that end. Lindbergh realized that he would have to bring his plane to earth as near the northern end of the 400 yard field as possible to avoid hitting a grand stand at the southern end. Lightly the plane landed, and the flyer swerved it just in time to avoid the grand stand.

The crowd which up to this time had been orderly went wild with joy and broke through the police cordon. The reception committee formed a protecting line about Lindbergh by linking their arms and escorting him to the gold club, where he was welcomed by Sir John Burdon, Governor of Honduras.

On the arrival of the Governor and his suite at the new town club, the British and American National Anthems were played by the Colonial Band, which had been diligently practicing the "Star Spangled Banner" for the occasion. Lindbergh was photographed among a bevy of feminine beauties.

He was unanimously elected a life member of the local golf club and signed the register of members.

FIRE DAMAGES ELLINGE HOME NEAR NEW PALTZ

Tuesday morning between 8 and 9 o'clock the firemen were called out to a fire in the old homestead of the late Sol Ellinge, north of New Paltz, now owned by a Mr. Ellinge who is spending the winter in Chicago, who had a man to care for the property in his absence. The caretaker visited the house the night before, attended to the fires as usual, and left with everything apparently all right. On his rounds again Tuesday morning to attend the fires, on entering the house he was met with a dense smoke pouring out in the rooms. Living some distance, he had to return home to phone the alarm to the firemen, who responded quickly to the call. However, it was a stubborn fire to fight, being confined in the rafters and close places. It is thought it was caused by a defective chimney. After a time the firemen had the fire completely extinguished. The loss has not yet been estimated.

Prosperity in 1928 Forecast

By Representatives of the Major Industries in the United States—Predict Slow, Steady Progress in All Lines.

New York, Dec. 31 (AP).—Barring unexpected depressions or disasters, business leaders of the nation believe, there is no reason why prosperity should not continue in 1928. In a symposium of business forecasts prepared by The Associated Press, representatives of the major industries in the United States pointed out that business indicator augurs well for the future. They say fundamental conditions are sound and they predict slow, steady progress in all lines.

Thomas A. Holden, vice president of the P. W. Dodge Corporation, says construction will show moderate improvement over 1927, with total expenditures approaching $7,000,000,000. Chemical manufacturers expect a good market and are counting upon American resource, initiative and ingenuity to meet increasing foreign competition. In the belief of Salmon W. Wilder, chairman of the Manufacturing Chemists' Association.

The silk industry also expects a good season, with American holding position as the world's leader, according to H. Schneiwind, Jr., president of the Silk Association of America.

Jesse L. Laskey, first vice president of Paramount-Pamous-Lasky Corporation, believes 1928 will be one of the biggest years for business in the motion picture industry.

The livestock industry again is coming into its own, avers J. H. Mercer, chairman of the National Livestock and Meat Board. C. G. Wilmer, president of Dodge Brothers, sees no serious impediment to continued good business in the automotive industry.

Beverly Searches For "The Wolf"

Beverly, N. J., Dec. 31 (AP).—A bespectacled would-be kidnapper, who calls himself "The Wolf" and has terrorized the neighborhood for three days, was being sought today by police through the state.

Believed to have been prompted in his actions by reading of the kidnapping and slaying in Los Angeles, the man has made three appearances in this vicinity. Terror stricken mothers have been warned to keep their children indoors while anxious fathers serve in posses.

The Wolf's latest appearance was at midnight last night when he attacked 17-year-old Reginald Duncan, son of the superintendent of the Beverly cemetery. It was his second attempt to carry off young Duncan. On Thursday night the boy escaped after a severe beating and last night he got away before his assailant, described as about 35 years old and more than six feet in height, got hold of him.

A young woman nurse frustrated the Wolf's attempt to kidnap an infant son of a prominent Riverton family three days ago. Before the man's first attack on young Duncan he had warned the boy's family by throwing a note attached to a stone through their dining room window.

Despite a widespread search for "The Wolf" no trace of him had been found early today.

No Arrests Here.

Friday night was a quiet night in Kingston with no arrests made by the police, and no cases in police court this morning.

City Manager For Rochester

New Form of Government Effective Sunday—New Charter Also in Effect—New City Manager to Receive $20,000 Salary.

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 31 (AP).—The city manager form of government becomes operative in Rochester tomorrow. The inception of the new regime is characterized in this city as a tribute to the zeal, untiring interest and singleness of purpose of the women voters of the municipality. For it was they who fostered the plan, fought for its adoption, and carried it to success after one of the bitterest political battles in the history of western New York.

Mrs. Helen Probst Abbott, a member of the City Club and long a prominent club woman and civic worker here, is the acknowledged godmother of the city manager plan. She became interested in the plan several years ago, and at her own expense visited various cities where it had been adopted. So enthusiastic were her reports to the City Club that club members engaged speakers to come to Rochester and explain the new form of municipal government.

Later, when the campaign for its adoption here was in earnest, Miss Emily R. Kneubuhl of Cincinnati was hired to direct the educational campaign. The City Manager League was organized, and more than 77,000 voters were enrolled as members.

In November, 1925, Rochester went to the polls and returned an overwhelming majority in favor of the city manager plan.

New Manager Knows City.

Steven Bond Story, named as the first city manager, enjoys the advantage of intimate knowledge of the new government, since he assisted in the drafting of the new city charter and has, for the past eight years, been directing engineer of the Bureau of Municipal Research here. Mr. Story is a native of Freeport, Long Island. He is a graduate of Union College, and was commissioned as an ensign in the navy during the World War. After his service in the navy he was an instructor in the Steam Engineering School for Naval Reserves at Pelham, coming from that school to accept a position as engineer with the municipal research bureau.

The new city charter was drawn up, culled from the most successful charters of cities under similar management, through the joint efforts of Clarence Platt, corporation counsel; Irving Gelsler, assistant corporation counsel; and Steven B. Story. Opponents of the plan immediately instituted suit to test its legality, and while certain sections dealing with the election laws were revoked, the main body of the charter was upheld. It will be under this charter that the reins of the government will go to Mr. Story tomorrow.

The salary of the city manager is $20,000 a year.

Cold Weather to Usher in New Year

Forecasters Declare Practically Every Section of the United States Will Feel Cold Wave Tonight.

Washington, Dec. 31 (AP).—The chilling breath of Jack Frost will greet America tonight as it watches the old year out and the new year in.

Cold weather is predicted for practically every section of the United States, a high pressure area of the greatest magnitude of this season having overspread the Canadian northwest, the northern Rocky mountain region, the plains states and the west gulf states.

Advancing northeastward with greatly increased intensity, the disturbance that was over Arkansas Friday, extended through to the northwest Florida coast, assuring cold weather for the eastern states.

Temperatures in the far northwest as low as 40 degrees below zero were forecast by the weather bureau, and cold wave warnings have been issued in many regions. Even on the comparatively mild Pacific coast, colder weather is forecast, accompanied by rains. The cold period is not expected to diminish by the end of New Year's Day but to extend into Monday before temperatures begin to rise.

Snow is looked for in the middle west, with the skies clearing in some sections, while the middle Atlantic states will possibly receive rain tonight. Snow will follow the rains in New England and in the lower lake regions, according to the forecast.

Big Celebration In New York

Welcome Promises To Exceed Anything in the Previous History of the City—Party For the "Down and Outers."

New York, Dec. 31 (AP).—A welcome promising to be even madder and merrier than those of the past today awaited 1928 in New York.

As the old year prepared to move off into the ages, indications were that the din of welcome by the surging street crowds, the night club revelers and the diners and dancers at hotels and private parties, would exceed anything in the previous history of the city.

Night clubs, with cover charges averaging $12 a person and in many cases exceeding $20, had squeezed in the last extra table days ago and further reservations were not to be had at any price.

Theatres also had boosted their box office prices and with the addition of the speculators' profit tickets for popular Broadway shows were selling as high as $25 each.

The dining rooms of all leading hotels were booked to capacity, the McAlpin and Astor hotels each reporting reservations for 6,000 persons for dinner and dancing.

Perhaps the only party at which there will be no cover charge will be that given by Urban Ledoux (Mr. Zero) to several hundred "down and outers" who will be fed in front of the public library at Fifth avenue and Forty-second street, only a few blocks from the theatrical district where it is estimated $1,000,000 will be spent to usher in the new year.

Heavy Fog and Rain Over City

Kingston was enveloped in a heavy layer of fog Friday and this morning, accompanied by a fall of rain. The fog was so heavy Friday evening that automobile traffic had to proceed carefully. Several minor collisions were reported in the city, but no one was injured. Thursday night and Friday morning the Hudson river was clothed in a heavy fog which was not dispelled to any great extent throughout the day, and during the early evening a heavy fall settled down on the city which continued through the night and the early hours of today.

Some time early Friday evening burglars gained entrance to the shop of Samuel Weisberg, 271 Fair street, by entering the cellar and cutting a hole in the floor of the store through which entrance to the store was gained. A hasty check-up this morning disclosed some 35 fur coats missing, several cloth coats and a number of fur pieces. All of the coats taken were the property of Mr. Weisberg and none of the goods taken belonged to customers. Among the coats taken was Mrs. Weisberg's coat which had been left in the store for repairs.

The burglary was not discovered until shortly before 3 o'clock this morning when the watchman went into the store to turn off the lights as is his custom. The hole in the floor had been carefully concealed by drawing a rug over it.

Friday evening about 6 o'clock the store was closed and the lights turned on for the night. Persons who passed the store later in the evening remarked that the night lights in the store about half way down the floor were out as well as a light at the rear of the store. It is thought that the burglars worked in the dark after gaining admittance, although no one recalls the window being open at any time during the evening. The burglars probably worked in the shadows after turning out the lights in the back of the store.

Dr. Johnston's Lights Out.

The hall leading to the upper floor of the building remains unlocked until about 10 o'clock when the janitor locks up the building for the night. Dr. F. A. Johnston, who occupies offices on the upper floor, noticed lights in one of his offices were out about 8 o'clock and shortly before that his office assistant heard a noise in the store below but believed it was some of Mr. Weisberg's workmen or the janitor. The lights in the doctor's office remained out and when unable to locate the janitor in the building to have the fuse looked after, Dr. Johnston abandoned work.

Burglar Locked in Building.

It is believed that when the janitor locked up the hall door at 10 o'clock the burglars were in the building. At that time there was no evidence of the hall door being tampered with, while this morning it was noticed that the hall door had been jimmied open from the inside. The police believe the burglar was locked in the store by the janitor about 10 o'clock.

The cellar door is seldom locked as the hall entrance door is closed and locked at night, preventing admittance from the street.

Broke Lock to Get Out.

After gaining entrance to the cellar the burglars selected a spot in the store floor which is partially screened from passers-by on the street. A hole some 10 or 15 inches was cut through the floor from the cellar and none but a small person could squeeze through the hole. After gaining admittance to the store the thief or thieves could work leisurely in the darkness. After locating the goods desired, the burglar left by a side door which leads to the hallway. This door is closed with a spring lock. Once in the hall the street door was found locked, and it was necessary to force open the door to get out to the street.

A hammer, saw and other tools were left behind by the burglars. Some of the tools are new, still bearing the price mark. The police are endeavoring to locate the store where the tools were purchased in an effort to locate the purchaser if possible.

Storage Vaults Not Touched.

No attempt was made to break into the fur storage vaults in the Weisberg cellar. At this season of the year there are very few furs in storage in the vaults.

That the burglars tampered with the electric lights and undoubtedly put the circuit serving Dr. Johnston's office out of commission was shown when it was discovered that the service on one circuit in the McNellis Electric store, which is in the northern end of the Weisberg building was out.

Thief Familiar With Store.

Friday evening was well adapted to the crime as a heavy fog hung over the city, making visibility limited. That the job was done by someone familiar with the habits and customs

The "Seven Seas"
Col. G. E. Gerini in his "Researches on Ptolemy's Geography of Eastern Asia" traces the expression "seven seas" back to Indian and Chinese legends. From the "Parasas" Colonel Gerini has made the following list of seven seas: Sea of Salt Water, surrounds India; Sea of Sugar Cane Juice, surrounds Burma; Sea of Wine, surrounds the Malay Peninsula; Sea of Clarified Butter, surrounds the Sunda archipelago; Sea of Milk, surrounds Siam and Cambodia; Sea of Curd and Whey, surrounds southern China; Sea of Fresh Water, surrounds northern China and Mongolia. It is apparent, therefore, that the idea of the seven seas is of considerable antiquity and the original list may be older.

When Do You Call A Physician?

Many ailing people attempt to doctor themselves when they think their case is not serious enough to call a physician.

Some imagine their symptoms exactly the same as a friend or neighbor, and use their remedy.

Others ask their druggist to prescribe for them. If he does he makes a handsome profit and the benefits are doubtful.

Still others use patent medicine advertisements as their doctor, also with doubtful results.

After all these have failed, the doctor is called and his work is so much harder because of the delay.

NOW!

Call your physician first, benefit by his experience and skill. Take your prescriptions to

Happy New Year!

Attention, everybody! Here comes Miss 1928 and she certainly is cute. She's right with you at the last stroke of 12. James La Verne, four years old and tiny, but a motion picture starlet withal, charmingly typifies the spirit of the new season. (International Newsreels)

Accommodating
"Say!" yelled a man who had had his feet run over for the third time while he was working under his car. "I'm getting tired of this! If you do it again I'll get up and kick your liver to pieces!" "I can't help it," responded the small town girl who was learning to drive and not succeeding very well. "I don't know how to drive yet, and my car seems determined to run over something." "Aw, that's all right," said the complainer, crawling forth. "I don't see who you were. If you'll wait a minute I'll lie down in the street and let you run over me all you please."—Kansas City Times.

Costly Ship Models
The cost of models of war vessels varies with the type of ship. Models of dreadnaughts such as the North Dakota, which was scrapped in 1923 under the terms of the limitation of armaments pact, cost from $10,000 to $15,000 and sometimes take two years to build.

Petrified Trees
Standing trees petrify. Silica or quartz and other chemical solutions in the moisture of the air replace each particle of wood in the tree, atom for atom, until the whole tree is turned to stone. This happens only where conditions for petrification are especially favorable.

Valuable Oil

Cod-liver oil has long been popularly employed in northern Europe in rheumatic and strumous diseases. It was first brought to the notice of the profession generally by German practitioners and had acquired great reputation on the continent before it was used to any extent in Great Britain. At Manchester, in England, it was employed by the medical profession in the treatment of chronic rheumatism and gout as early as 1706, but it was not until the appearance of the treatise of Professor Bennett of Edinburgh, 1841, that it came into general notice in Great Britain and the United States.

Death Double Victor

Death was twice a victor in a mighty battle between two deer for the supremacy of the forest range in Montgonery. After the antlers of the deer became locked the two pulled and tugged until one fell with a broken neck. Then the winner prepared to leave the scene to take up his leadership. He was unable to shake his antlers loose from those of the defeated foe. The body of the dead deer was dragged for many feet until the living one dropped from sheer exhaustion. Death overtook it in the form of starvation and exposure.—Boston Globe.

Growth of Beard Not Stimulated by Razor

Whether or not shaving makes the beard grow faster is a question that never has been definitely answered to the satisfaction of all scientists. It is the general belief among medical men and physiologists that shaving itself does not make the beard grow faster and that cutting does not increase the growth of hair.

There is a definite rate of growth in the hair of normal and healthy persons and this growth is not affected by mere cutting. It is possible, however, that shaving makes the beard grow faster for a different reason, says Pathfinder Magazine. Shaving tends to irritate the skin somewhat and causes an increased flow of blood to the shaved section. Consequently there is an increase in the nourishment of the hair follicles, and this may cause the beard to grow stiffer and heavier, and perhaps faster.

It is widely believed that if a man never shaved he would not have as heavy a beard as he would have if he shaved a few years and then stopped.

World's Timber Supply

The world will face a serious shortage of timber within a few decades, says Christian Storchmann, a leading industrial and forestry expert of Sweden. Sweden's effort to safeguard and maintain a future supply of timber is in contrast, he says, to the indiscriminate felling of trees in many countries. Russia still has large forest reserves, but only a small part of them can be utilized because of lack of transportation facilities. Among the northern countries only Sweden now keeps the cutting of trees on a level with reforestation. Steps to convert waste and swamp lands into forest areas by draining are now also being taken.

Accurate Courts for Tennis

Hard Court of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology—The Inset Shows Mary K. Browne.

America's recovery of the world's tennis championship depends on a generation of players trained on hard, fast courts. Miss Mary K. Browne, America's ranking woman professional, attributes France's capture of the Davis cup to the fact that her players learned and perfected their game on hard, scientifically accurate courts.

Several of the outstanding French players are persons of considerable wealth and well able to build and maintain expensive red clay de luxe courts. However, there are many communities in France where the only tennis court to be found is made of concrete. An American school for French boys orphaned by the war, at Charleville near Lyons, has excellent concrete tennis courts on which exceptionally good tennis is played by the boys. Speed and accuracy are essential in modern tennis. In California, where there are more concrete tennis courts than in any other one section of the country, young players have attained a brilliance of technique which has sent an unusual number of them into national championship matches. "Bill" Johnston, veteran Pacific coast star, prefers concrete because "the action of the ball on the court is better suited to my game than any other kind of court. The ball comes off the court very fast and the bounce is not lowered to any great extent by the speed. It is better for beginners to learn the game on a hard court, as their strokes are speeded up and success today is largely based on speed."

The modern concrete court is gaining in use, particularly by schools and communities. The Massachusetts Institute of Technology is one of the eastern schools recently equipped with hard courts. In a number of cities, concrete courts have been adopted as standard for park use. To eliminate the glare of the sun on the courts, many makers use mineral color pigments in mixing the concrete.

California Vs. Pennsylvania

Berkeley, Cal., Dec. 31 (AP)—The reign of king football in central California collegiate circles for 1927 reached its closing flourish here today with grid teams of the University of Pennsylvania and California facing each other in an inter-sectional contest.

A fast field was assured, due to the canvas covering that has kept the turf dry during the past week, and with both eleven featuring a wide open passing attack, a free scoring game was forecast. A crowd of 50,000 is expected to see the game. The game was the occasion for the dedication of a memorial bench to Andrew "Andy" Smith, California's grid mentor from 1916 to 1925 and coach of the famed Bear "wonder teams", who died during the latter part of 1925. Smith was an alumnus of Pennsylvania and former football coach of the easterners.

California had a weight advantage of approximately 11 pounds to the man, but the attack of the Quakers blazed upon speed and deception rather than to weight.

Admiral Grayson Given Thoroughbred Arabian

To the breeding farm of Admiral Cary T. Grayson at Middleboro, Va., has come an Arabian stallion, the gift of Charles Carne, former United States minister to China, who in turn received the animal from King Ali Ibn Hussein of the Hedjaz.

The gift recalls that the three valued crosses in thoroughbred pedigrees go back from Herod, Matcham and Eclipse to Rerly Turk, the Godolphin Arabian and the Darley Arabian.

The first Arabian stallion imported to America was Bashaw, brought in 1765 to the farm of Stephen Van Wyck on Long Island. Bashaw was bred by the Moroccan emperor and was presented in turn to the Bay of Algiers, the Swedish consul at Algiers and the grand duke of Tuscany.

KILLING AN IDEA

THE hardest thing in the world to kill is an idea.

You can destroy the man who has it; you can reduce his brain to dust and his body to ashes, but his idea, if it is a right idea, will live on and thrive despite your efforts.

The crucifixion did not kill the idea of Christianity.

The burning of Joan of Arc did not wipe out the truths she stood for.

John Brown's idea did not die with him on the scaffold.

The imprisonment of Bunyan did not kill his idea; it rather helped to strengthen it, for in his cell he wrote his great "Pilgrim's Progress."

The threats of the greatest powers in the world, while they made Galileo deny with his voice the truth of his theory that the earth revolved around the sun, did not change or kill his idea, for under his breath he whispered "E pur si muove" ("It does move though").

On the other hand a wrong idea, is sure to die.

Nothing is eternal except the truth. The false promise destroys both argument and conclusion. The false idea eventually kills itself. All error is self-destructive.

There is a right and a wrong way to kill a bad idea. The wrong way is to kill the possessor. The right way is to prove the idea itself is wrong and then it dies of itself.

Witchcraft was not obliterated by the burnings of Salem. It was wiped out by the proving of the truth that there is no such thing as witchcraft.

The decadence of monarchies has not resulted from the beheading of kings nor the imprisonment of princes. It is the result of proving to the people that there is a better, more just and more useful kind of government than the rule of a sovereign.

The greatest support that wrong ideas have ever had was violence. The human soul somehow or other leans to the aid of the abused, even if it be in the wrong.

Normally, man wants to see everything and everybody have a fair chance, a square deal, an opportunity.

The surest way to give a wrong idea added support is to treat it unfairly.

Give the right half a chance and it will annihilate wrong and wipe error out of existence. It is stronger than iron bars. It is more potent than the scaffold. It is the only thing with which to fight and win.

FOOD FOR CHILLY DAYS

WITH the chilly days we like a dish of scrapple for breakfast.

Scrapie.

Scrub four pig's feet and put them with two pounds of liver into a kettle and cover with boiling water. Boil one-half hour, then simmer in a fireless cooker for eight to ten hours or on the back of the range until night. If the cooker is used, reheat and put back in the cooker until morning. In the morning remove the fat and take the meat from the bones and chop. Strain the liquor and bring to the boiling point, add corn meal and cook as mush, a long slow cooking. Stir in the chopped meat just before taking from the fire, add seasonings of salt and pepper and pour the scrapie into greased bread pans to mold. When cold cut into slices and fry in fat.

Best Potato Salad. To six cupsful of hot sliced potatoes add two teaspoonfuls of salt, one-half teaspoonful of paprika, one small grated onion, one-half cupful of mild vinegar, two tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley and one cupful of heavy cream. Mix with silver forks lightly. Serve cold with sliced smoked tongue. A tablespoonful of any good salad dressing may be added to the cream if desired. Prepare this salad allowing it to stand for a half day to season.

Ice-Box Cookies. Take one cupful each of brown sugar, white sugar and butter, two well-beaten eggs, one teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of salt, four and one-half cupfuls of flour, one cupful of coarsely chopped nut meats with flavoring to taste. Mix and roll into a roll as round as possible and place in the ice chest overnight. In the morning slice into very thin slices and bake in a hot oven. Do not waste the liquor from suet-kraut. It is an invaluable aid for the digestive tract and good for the blood. Take two tablespoonfuls before meals.

COWBOYS ROUND UP A FORTUNE

Owed $1,000,000 Three Years Ago, Now Own Four Skyscrapers.

Chicago—Three years ago two cowboys arrived in Chicago from the open spaces of South Dakota. In the pocket of one were papers showing that they had traded what was left of their Mule Head ranch for a building in Chicago's loop. In the pockets of the other were documents showing that the partners were in debt for something like $1,000,000. Today, after only three years of business in the city, these two ex-ranchers own four Chicago skyscrapers, the smallest 16 floors high, the tallest 42.

"Financial wizardry? Not at all," they say. "Just an example of the opportunities in Chicago."

Adolph Stamer, born and reared in South Dakota, until ten years ago never knew what it was to be hemmed in by roads, but always traveled directly across the open plains. Ernest A. Jackson is the son of a former governor of Iowa. A hiking for outdoor life prompted him to leave his home in Des Moines, Iowa, for cow punching. That presently threw him into contact with young Stamer. Together they rode the range, acquired a ranch, increased their herds and holdings only to see them go slipping in the post-war depression. Then they quit to try Chicago—where obstacles gradually yielded to their Western grit.

Stamer's father was one of those who entered Dakota shortly after Custer's last fight. With his bride he had been traveling overland from Hastings, Neb., to Wyoming, looking for a likely spot in which to settle. They neared the Sioux reservation at about the time it was to be opened to settlers. Changing their plans they entered the reservation and built a homestead on the plains, somewhere between the Missouri river and the Black hills.

Among the Indians.
Here Adolph Stamer was born and grew up, 45 miles from the nearest town. A squaw man about ten miles distant was the nearest neighbor. Three more boys arrived in the family. When they were old enough for schooling, the father bought lumber and erected the first schoolhouse in the Sioux reservation. During this period the family lived under the protection of the soldiers at Fort Randall, many miles away. And once—Stamer recalled recently, sitting in his Chicago offices—the soldiers came galloping up to the little homestead to carry the family to the safety of the fort because the Indians had once more gone upon the warpath.

At last, law came into the reservation, counties were laid out, the elder Stamer found himself elected to the office of sheriff. "We were county-seat folks then," said the son reminiscently. "Regular folks." But town life palled upon him and he soon went back to punching cows, a job at which he had become efficient on his father's ranch. Gradually he acquired a few cows of his own, took care of them, added more and started a ranch of his own.

About this time Ernest Jackson arrived in the Sioux country. Hearing that Stamer was making a success in a small way, Jackson, having a little money of his own, suggested that they go double on the ranch. Thus began the partnership that still continues.

Had 110,000 Acres of Land.
Their combined efforts prospered. They began to expand their holdings. Money was being made in the cattle business and the two partners bought another ranch. At one time their lands comprised 110,000 acres and included seven town sites. Twenty-five thousand head of cattle bearing their brands roamed the plains. Then after the war came the depression. As rapidly as they had piled up their money they began to lose it.

"Our bookkeeper was using three bottles of red ink to every one of black," said Stamer. "I got so sick of seeing those red marks that I never wanted to go near the office. We had to do something and do it quickly. And we realized that that something would have to be outside of the cattle business."

"So we began looking around. We had shipped cattle to Chicago, Minneapolis and St. Paul, to Des Moines, St. Louis and Kansas City. We had ridden on those cattle trails and had seen those cities. And we realized that the place in which to make money was in a rapidly growing city. The question we wanted answered was which of those cities was growing the fastest, because that was the city we would head for."

"We began writing for figures that would give us the information. We found that people 1,000 miles south and 1,500 miles west, northwest and north were traveling into Chicago. We found that railroads running out of Des Moines into Chicago a few years ago were handling two or three pullmans a day, but now were sending whole trains of them. We found that where one train was running between Chicago and the Northwest a few years ago, a half dozen or more were running now and those in several sections."

"Then we received figures indicating that Chicago was growing at the rate of 125,000 a year. Chicago was the key city of the Mississippi valley. No city that we knew of seemed to have the manufacturing possibilities of Chicago or was its equal as an agricultural market."

Trade in Ranch.
"So we opened negotiations to trade our Mule Head ranch for some Chicago property. That took some time, and in the meantime we were losing money so fast that it made us dizzy."

SIX SLAIN AS SHERIFFS AND POLICE CLASH

Bitter feud between the police of South Pittsburgh, Tenn., and the sheriff's of Marion County, Tenn., came to a bloody climax in South Pittsburgh when the opposing forces engaged in a gun fight, in which six men were shot to death and three wounded. The police and sheriffs had been at odds ever since they had taken opposing sides in a local strike. The town is now under martial law. Photograph shows the scene of the battle, crosses marking spots where men were killed. Insets show two of the victims, Sheriff Wash Copping (right) and Night Marshal Ben Parker (left).

Finally, we traded what was left of the place for the Transportation building at Dearborn and Harrison streets. And then we cut loose from our old life and started for Chicago."

The two ex-ranchers applied the principle in handling their new property that they had used in running their ranch.

"You can't run a ranch without being there and we figured that you couldn't run a city building without being on the job," said Stamer. "And we were there every day, from early in the morning until late at night."

The principles of ranch management as applied to operating a Chicago skyscraper proved so successful that it was not long before the ex-ranchers began looking around for a second building.

"Out on the ranch I heard a lot about a building known as the Montgomery ward tower," said Stamer. "People who had been to Chicago used to tell us it was the tallest building in the world. And when you went up in that tower, if you didn't get dizzy looking around, you could see all of Chicago and a whole lot farther. I guess it was just natural for us to feel similar about that building and have a hankering to have something to say about it. So when we heard that it was for sale we made a try for it and got it."

Success Continues.
More successful financing and management followed. Then the partners opened negotiations with the Woolworth company in New York, suggesting a Woolworth building in Chicago. The terms were agreed upon, the financial end attended to by the two former cow punchers and the building started upward at Monroe street and Wabash avenue. Three stories had been built when Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., whose retail store adjoins the new structure, decided they needed more space for their store. They spoke to Stamer and Jackson on the subject, offering to lease the space for fifty years if they could get it.

After further negotiations with the Woolworths, workmen began tearing down the three floors that had been built, for a different kind of steel frame was required for the department store. The building went up to the sixteen stories originally planned for it.

The next venture was the construction of what is now known as the Bankers' building at Clark and Adams street, directly across from the Federal building and half a block from the financial center of the city. The two westerners carried through a financing scheme and the building, 42 stories high, was constructed at a cost of $8,000,000.

Oregon's "First Lady" Collector of Antiques

Salem, Ore.—Collecting antiques, especially mementos of the pioneers, and historical literary works dealing with the early days of the state, has long been a hobby with Mrs. Isaac L. Patterson, wife of Oregon's governor.

Her chief attention is to her home. She loves the outdoors of the Willamette valley, preferring to remain on the farm at Kola, near Salem, where she became "first lady" of the state, rather than to move into a mansion at the capital.

In the summer she is busy with her garden, where she grows a great variety of flowers, cultivates water lilies and treasures a flock of mallard ducks. She is fond of gathering ancient candlesticks, old plates, cups and pewter. Mrs. Patterson has assembled a library of original Oregon history. She has one of the finest collections of Indian baskets in the Northwest.

She is a native daughter of Oregon, her father, C. S. Woodworth, coming to the state from Vermont in 1852.

Scrambled Eggs

Bowling Green, Ohio.—One thousand eggs scrambled along the tracks of the Toledo, Bowling Green and Southern Interurban line near Portage marked the spot where a traction car came into unexpected contact with a truck.

"Culture Battles" to Take Place of Sports

New Haven, Conn.—A Harvard proposal for a "battle of culture" between student teams which should compete in scholarship instead of athletics has been received at Yale. It is learned. The winners would receive individual gold medals and money with which to buy books for the university library.

The plan, which has for its object the stimulation of interest in studies as an offset to the emphasis now placed on undergraduate athletics, is said to have been proposed to the Harvard student council by Dean Alfred C. Hanford.

Teams of ten men would be selected by the respective universities to represent them in a series of competitive examinations. The team members would take identical examinations which would cover each department of study in the two institutions.

Favored Settlement

After little Jimmy had listened to his older brothers saying the Lord's prayer, he felt that he, too, had attained the age at which he might discard his childish prayer for the Lord's prayer. With his mother's consent, he bravely started in. All went well until he came to the words "Forgive us our debts," then his memory failed. He considered for several moments and again bowing his head, he finished with, "Forgive us our debts, and help us to pay them."

the final stock market session of the year. Although a few soft spots cropped out here and there, the general tendency was upward, in num-points. Trading was unusually heavy for a pre-holiday session.

Encouraged by the optimistic tenor of year-end reviews, pools succeeded in marking up a wide assortment of specialties to new peaks for the year.

Rails, which have been rather sluggish all week also showed a firmer tendency. St. Louis Southwestern pre-

In the industrial group, Greens-

Canada Copper, Warren Brothers,

FRENCH LINGERIE IS A DELICACY, NOT NECESSARILY A LUXURY—THAT IT IS HAND-MADE IS ASSURED, AND THAT IT IS DELICATE IN COLOR AND ELEGANT IN A FACT.

Paris.—When one buys lingerie in Paris, it is taken quite as a matter of course that it is hand-made. Nor are the extravagant motifs in embroidery, or the spectacular effects in colors regarded in any way except with admiration.

The French have an innate as well as a cultivated appreciation of beauty, and are sensitive to beauty in any of its phases. At the moment, while one may buy lingerie in any of the colors dear to one, peach, pink, and apricot are the tones advised, not only for the tulle, but for the equipment of any depleted wardrobe, be it for maid or matron. There has been a distinct revival of interest in lace since the war, but this by no means implies that lace must be used. Old ivory-tinted laces of many types find themselves combined with such pastel tones as are worn for the more intimate garments, but Valenciennes edgings too are used to no end with and without embroidery and drawn-work.

There are also charming appliques, bindings in contrasting colors, such as georgette or net with crepe de chine. Materials may come and materials may go, but crepe de chine promises to go on forever. It is the most obliging of fabrics, being pressed into service for indoor and outdoor apparel, and in a wide range of colors, including the standard, as well as the current color range.

French lingerie is given more to finely pleated effects than is the lingerie purchasable and applicable to America.

New For a "Peppy" and Prosperous New Year!

Now for a New Year that's rosy and bright!

Let's start the game with a BIG GOAL in sight!

Bound and determined on "forging ahead!"

No more complaining that "business is dead!"

We're feeling "PEPPY", and chock full of perk!

No time for "gloomings" and no time to shirk!

Let's put "Tough Luck" and "Hard Times" out of biz.

And make the wheels of this old world just WHIZ!

You, Mister Editor, make your pen HUM.

Telling the world of the BRIGHT DAYS to come!

You, Mister Preacher, start preaching "GOOD TIMES!"

I'll do my part, with my little "pep" rhymes!

You, Mister Salesman, sell goods by the BALE!

Send in your orders by air mail and rail!

Let's keep things HUMMING, all over the map—

Grabbing the BLESSINGS God spills in our lap!

You, Mister Citizen, cast off your fear!

You, Mister Farmer, start oozing GOOD CHEER!

You, Mister Banker, sigh deep with relief!

You, Mister Merchant, start shedding your grief!

Let's get some "BANK ROLLS" and quit being "broke!"

Let's make those factory smokestacks belch SMOKE!

Let's keep the railroad trains running "on high!"

New Year is HERE—and the limit's the SKY!

More men marry because of kindness and gentleness than because of beauty and virtue.

"I'm surprised at your tailor turning you out like that."

"It's not his fault. He can never get the right measurements—I'm so ticklish!"

They were talking about inventions.

"The man who invented the flying machine was a great genius," said Pat.

"Hi think wireless is the greatest invention," said Harry.

"Vell," said Ignatz, "the fellow vat invented interest vas no slouch."

Progress: Garters used to be a necessity—now they're an attraction.

Billy and Silly were sailing on a river, when the boat capsized. Billy, who was a poor swimmer, was struggling around near where the boat had sunk; but Silly, who was a good swimmer, swam ashore. Silly climbed out on the bank, shook himself a little, and plunged in again and swam out toward Billy.

"Where are you goin'?" yelled a friend.

"Sure," said Silly. "I have to save myself first, but now I have to save Billy."

The criminals should not be petted so much that a person has to become one to get any attention.

Children come home to roost.

Few achievements give a man as much satisfaction as fixing something around the house.

The poor man does not have to live in dread of doing something that might hurt business.

LAST NIGHT on the RADIO

The clearest rebroadcasting from a European station yet heard was that Friday afternoon about 4 o'clock by WGY from LSW at Chelmsford, England. It was good enough to be entertaining, aside from the thrill the distance gave. Reception from WJZ and WEAF at 5:30 was little short of miraculous.

The Woko Pep Boys at WNRC, Greensboro, N. C., were a feature of the evening. The station's power is only 250 watts.

There was static but also great volume throughout the evening. No local interference, except that of bloopers, was observed.

Mario Chamlee, the noted grand opera tenor, will be the guest soloist in the first part of the General Motors' family party to be broadcast by WEAF and the Red network at 9:30, Monday night, January 2. Where and what is WLOG? That is what the announcement sounded like and the announcer was very clear. Its wave is around 250 meters or less.

The General Motors "Family Party" on Monday evening, January 2, will be Chevrolet night, in celebration of the new 1938 model of this important division of the big automotive group. Thus the "Bigger and Better" Chevrolet will make its appearance simultaneously on the market and on the air. Its debut will be broadcast in music by the

Search for Driver Of Blue Taxicab

New York, Dec. 31.—Search for the slayer of Mrs. Mary Harrington, vaudeville actress, centered today in a quest for the driver of a blue taxicab frequently parked before the upper west side apartment where she lived.

Neighbors of the woman, believed clubbed to death a week ago by a man who stripped her apartment of jewelry and furs, told police the taxicab had been parked for long intervals before the apartment in the months preceding her death.

Handicapped by the fact that the body was not discovered until an inquiring neighbor pushed her way into the apartment on Thursday, and then was not recognized as a murder until many hours later, police were striving to reconstruct the story of the murder as best they could.

Guy Harrington, divorced husband of the woman, arrived from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., where he has been appearing in stock company productions, to aid police in their search. He was questioned for several hours at police headquarters.

National Broadcasting Company over a chain of thirty stations, extending from Boston to Texas, beginning at 9:30 eastern standard time. Mario Chamlee, the noted grand opera tenor, will be the soloist of the evening, singing popular classics with accompaniment by a symphony orchestra.
